

FIGURE 17.24. Diversity in diet and beak shape in species of Galápagos finches. (A) Large ground finch, Geospiza magnirostris, which can crack large seeds. (B) Woodpecker finch, Cactospiza pallida, using a tool to extract insect larvae. (C,D) Different beak shapes of two Geospiza fortis from the island of Daphne Major.

17.24A, reprinted from Grant P.R. et al., Science 313: 224, photo courtesy of B. Rosemary Grant; 17.24C,D, reprinted from Grant P.R. et al., Science 313: 224, photos courtesy of B. Rosemary Grant