

FIGURE 3.15. Marsupial fossils in Antarctica. This upper Eocene fossil example of a lower jaw of a polydolopid was found on Seymour Island of the Antarctic Peninsula. An artist's reconstruction of this 20-cm-long marsupial is shown at right.

3.15, Woodburne M.O. et al., Science 218: 284–286, © Robert A. Hicks, rahicksphoto.com

Evolution © 2007 Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory Press